דבר תורה

For those of you who have been following the previous parshios, you know that we've gone through lots of mitzvot. Well, this parshah brings lots more. Seventy-four more, to be exact. Let's get started!

Returning lost objects: When we find something that somebody has lost, if there's any way we can figure out who it belonged to, we must return it to the owner.

This is a big mitzvah.

Burying the dead: Another biggie: Respecting the body of a dead person and burying it as soon as possible.

Protecting the mother: Before we take eggs or baby birds from a nest, we must send away the mother bird, so she won't see and be sad. We learn from this to be compassionate to all creatures.

Fencing: Anyone who builds a new house has to make a fence for the roof, so nobody will fall and hurt themselves. This teaches us to always take precautions to make sure there are no dangers that might trip up others.

No mixing: We must be careful not to create kilayim, which is a mixture of two different species. For example, we can't plant two types of plants too close to each other where they might cross-pollinate. Same with animals: we can't yoke together two different species, such as an ox and a donkey. Similar to this is the idea of shaatnez: we may not wear wool and linen mixed together.

Tzitzit: Any time we wear a four-cornered garment, we have to attach strings, called tzitzit, at the corners. In order to do this mitzvah at all times, we wear a special garment with four corners with the strings attached. That garment is called tzitzit as well.

Eating on the job: When you have people working for you in the field, picking fruit or vegetables, you must let them eat whatever they want while they work. The worker can't take whatever s/he wants home, but eating on the job is his or her right.

A lesson from Miriam: If someone says something bad about another Jew, he is punished with tzara'as. We learned about this a while back in the parshios of Tazria and Metzora. The Jews are reminded of this here, and Miriam is held up as an example. Because she spoke ill of Moshe, she was struck with tzara'as.

The final mitzvah in this parshah is to remember Amalek, the evil nation who attacked the Jews after they left Egypt, and work to erase its memory.

FUN FACT

1. Honking your horn in New York is illegal.

2. About 10% of population are left handed.

JOKEs and RIDDLEs

*Why couldn't the bicycle stand up by itself?*

It was two-tired!

**What did one wall say to the other wall?*

I'll meet you at the corner!

**Why did the scarecrow win an award?*

Because he was outstanding in his field!

Riddles:

**What has keys but can't open locks?*

A piano!

**I speak without a mouth and hear without ears. I have no body, but I come alive with the wind. What am I?*

An echo!

**What gets wetter as it dries?*

A towel!

**I have branches, but no fruit, trunk, or leaves. What am I?*

A bank!

**What can travel around the world while staying in a corner?*

A stamp!

MIDDLE SCHOOL NEWS DANISH

If you said Shabbos mevorchim tehillim, you should know what you had by lunch this week. Yep, you guessed it, jumbo chocolate danishes from South Florida kosher supermarket. As rabbi Shachar called up each boy to receive their mouth-watering Danish. They all knew the reason they were called up. Because they worked hard, but that wasn't a one-time thing there will be more to come..

The bracha for children

There was a married not so frum couple that did not have children for a long time and they were very sad.

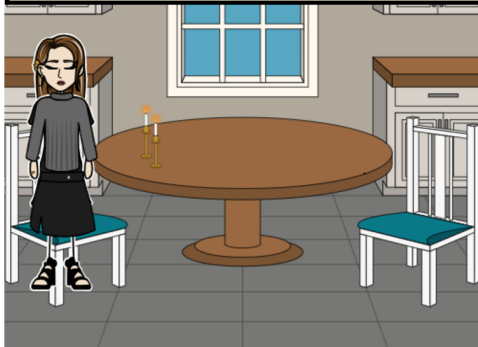

They went to doctor's but they couldn't help.

After some time past the wife started wearing every day she would wear long sleeve shirt and dress

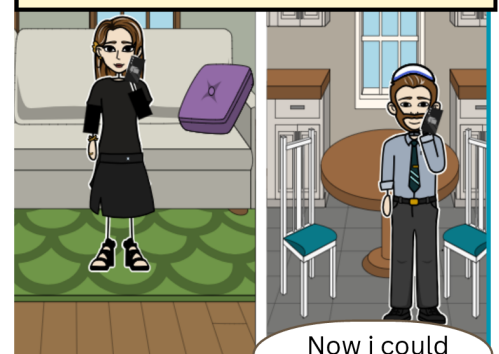

She started to mitzvos and getting closer to yidishkeit

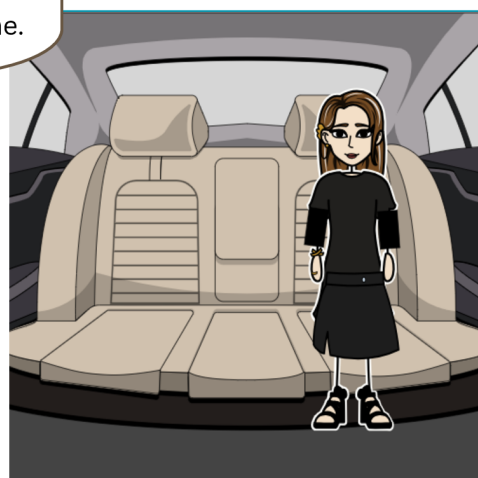

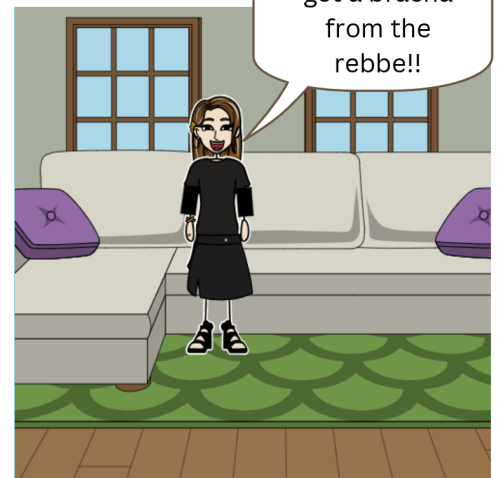

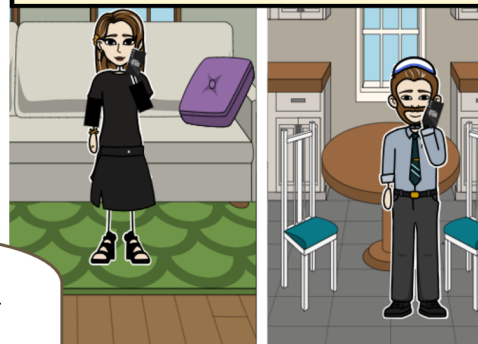

one time she was talking to her friend about that she wants children

She called to join but there was no more space she became sad

Like a few months later she gat a phone call from the persone charge of this group that someone backed out and she could join, she asked when is it he answered tomorrow.

She arrived
